

Hello Fantastic Fives!

Thank you for sharing your home learning activities with us – we love finding out what you have been learning about at home. Remember to send your work to Year5@northwickpark.essex.sch.uk

Have you read any interesting books recently or tried any new hobbies or activities? If you have, we would love to hear about them. We hope you are staying active and safely enjoying some fresh air and sunshine.

We hope you are enjoying our Africa topic and that you will have fun with our new activities.

Take care and stay safe

Born Free Maths

Visit <https://www.bornfree.org.uk/learn-at-home> and try their activity packs - you don't need to print these - can you answer the questions from the maths pack? Maybe you could try their other packs too?

African Currency

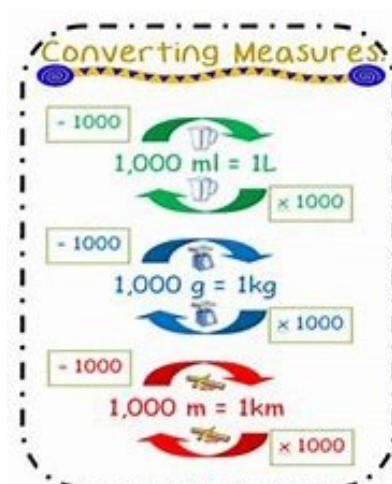

Can you find out about the currency in Africa - what is the value of the highest Zimbabwean currency note? Try creating your own currency - what will you call your new currency? Can you exchange your currency for English money - what is the exchange rate - maybe 100 or 1000 of your currency to the pound? How much different items cost in your currency - can you convert this into pounds?

Measures

Maybe you could help to sort the food cupboards - make sure you ask permission first! - can you compare and order items using grams or millilitres?

Can you convert litres to millilitres/millilitres into litres?

Can you convert kilograms into grams/grams into kilograms?

Don't forget you can practise your four operations at home. Ask someone to give you calculations or you generate your own numbers using a dice.
